Transition to Entrepreneur Client Case Study

Situation

A call to Coach Kevin led Mary A. to her true calling. After a long career in telecommunications, Mary was let go. The package she received was generous and she could have easily returned to another similar company in the same role. However there was a voice in her head reminding her of a long held desire to go in a different direction. She was torn, confused and wasn't sure what to do next. Then she heard about Coach Kevin from her networking group.

Coach Kevin Tucker

Coach Kevin Tucker knew exactly how Mary felt. It was a situation that both he had faced and one that he had helped many transitioning clients to face. In helping Mary get clear about her true passions and exploring her long held dream it wasn't long before Mary realized she was an entrepreneur at heart.

Result

With Coach Kevin's guidance Mary was able to eliminate all doubt in her mind and know that her direction was clear, she started her own business.
